

International Conference on Diversity in Organizations, Communities and Nations

Twenty-second International Conference on Diversity in Organizations, Communities and Nations – a conference organized by the Diversity in Organizations, Communities and Nations Research Network and University of Curaçao, Curaçao

A BLENDED CONFERENCE

The Diversity in Organizations, Communities and Nations Research Network was founded with a commitment to providing innovative spaces for Research Network members to interact, converse, and learn from each other. In this critical moment, we must re-imagine the scholarly conference. We should consider our climate impacts, public health obligations, the need to dismantle the enduring blockages of access and participation for segments of our local and global communities, while at the same time supporting the development of meaningful personal relationships.

We are taking on these challenges by offering a blended conference experience, with session types explicitly designed to make the most of both online and in-person social knowledge processes. In conversation with our Research Network Members, we have been reflecting upon the kinds of scholarly conferences we need for our sustainable social futures.

Our blended conference experience is delivered on the CGScholar platform – developed by the Common Ground Media Lab, the research and technology arm of Common Ground Research Networks.

This way we build for our Research Network Members flexible, and at the same time resilient, spaces for communication, engagement, and participation.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Founded in 2000, the Diversity in Organizations, Communities and Nations Research Network is brought together by a shared interest in human differences and diversity, and their varied manifestations in organizations, communities, and nations. We aim to traverse a broad terrain, sometimes technically and other times socially oriented, sometimes theoretical and other times practical in their perspective, and sometimes reflecting dispassionate analysis while at other times suggesting interested strategies for action. Our aim is to build an epistemic community where we can make linkages across disciplinary, geographic, and cultural boundaries.

Diversity in Organizations, Communities and Nations Research Network features research addressing the following annual themes and special focus:

- Theme One – Identity and Belonging
- Theme Two – Education and Learning Worlds of Differences
- Theme Three – Organizational Diversity
- Theme Four – Community Diversity and Governance
